Materiality and Design

Design and production are entirely Italian, quality of the materials and attention to details. The Rusty model integrates Maarmo's selection with a new finish, the COR-TEN steel.

COR-TEN made architects and designers fall in love that is why Maarmo decided to introduce this novelty in its collection. A metal effect which, thanks to the hands of our Creartisans and to the patient action of time makes every product unique.

Usable both in horizontal and in vertical, Rusty turns the pure rationality of the spaces into an irrational surprise.

The refinement and preciousness stand out creating unusual and peculiar atmospheres: Rusty's version of our Perfetto and Toscana radiators matches perfectly not only with modern and minimal spaces but also with polish and multifaceted ones. Rusty's manufacturing enhances the Perfetto model with the intriguing COR-TEN model, which is coarse at the right point, on the contrary, with reference to the Toscana model, it enhances the typical tactile finish of the stone.

Preparation phases

More than four preparation phases, in which the craftsmanship of our Creartisans and the taste for waiting become protagonist.

Time is the fundamental ingredient: between each phase the radiator must rest and it must have the time in order to let the thousands of ferrous pigments combine with marble and rejoice so that it is possible to create that magic which makes every product unique and inimitable.

The result is a worked surface which presents the typical irregular colouring of the COR-TEN in which light and dark of the rust intertwine in a continuous play.
